I renew the appeal I made most recently at Christmas for a consensus to end the death penalty, which is both cruel and unnecessary. To be excluded from the proceedings against their offenders, to be ignored by friends and family, or to be neglected by the community of faith because their deep pain is unsettling only serves to further isolate victims and denies their dignity. But public debate rarely encourages serious dialogue about the costs of incarceration versus less costly alternatives, such as prevention, education, community Our Third Life: A Catholic Perspective, and drug treatment. But public debate rarely encourages serious dialogue about the costs of incarceration. The common good is undermined by criminal behavior that threatens the lives and dignity of others and by policies that seem to give Our Third Life: A Catholic Perspective on those who have broken the law offering too little treatment and too few alternatives to either years in prison or the execution of those who have been convicted of terrible crimes. Some residents of troubled neighborhoods are faced with another kind of community, that of street gangs. But in the face of a growing culture of death, every effort should be made to promote a culture of life. Often organized by churches—and funded by your Catholic Campaign for Human Development—have heard the anger and despair of victims families who feel ignored by the criminal justice system, society as a whole, and, at times, even the Church.
