Nietzsche attempts to tackle these questions with this essay. I was raised quasi-religiously with an overactive thought process. He studied classical philology at the universities of Bonn and Leipzig, and in was appointed to the chair of classical philology at the University of Basel, Switzerland. Science seemsto equally embrace nihilism and takestruth to be its deity instead. We have never sought ourselves -- how could it happen that we should ever find ourselves? He is relentless in his critique of sub-optimal ways of responding to suffering, condemning religion, science, and most philosophy. By determining enslavement as good, slaves decide their weakness is a true state, denigrate and avoid our natural state, hence asceticism, in order to give our suffering a purpose and "higher" meaning.
