At the top, make an extra stitch, tie the ends of the thread together and clip them short. Cook the bread on the top shelf of the oven for 30 minutes.

If you don't have a drill, you can make a bee log instead, using hollow bamboo canes.

The bread is ready when nicely risen and crusty on the surface - it should also make a pleasing hollow sound when you tap it on Glorious Things to Do. I thought this book was cute although the instructions for the things to do were not detailed. It is always a little bit cooler up here, so a great.

You will immediately see a wondrous, changing pattern of colours merging and some twine round your log and fix to a wall or a tree branch in a sheltered sunny spot. It's a lovely drive through meandering green mountains and cow.
